

Testimonial for Alison Warner Evolve and grow

2nd February 2015

Although Alison has other businesses in the mentor group that I have been part of for the last year, she always takes the time to stay current and focused on the specifics of what is happening in my life and practice. She not only gives me strategies for changing old habits, but constructively challenges my preconceptions so that I see the value and productiveness of new approaches to running printingprogress, client relations and marketing. Alison is just as open to change as she expects me to be, and if certain strategies do not fit my circumstances or personal strengths, she works with me to develop ones that do fit. Alison stays in my corner, but never tells me only what I want to hear and I really I value her insight and personal attention.

It goes without saying that I would recommend Alison and I can't think of one professional that doesn't need a coach
